Unit: What happens when we do wrong?

- In the Muslim worldview, a wrongdoing or sin is believed to cause harm to the soul and create a distance from Allah (God).
- Many Muslims strive to 'cleanse' their souls from wrongdoing through sincere repentance, seeking forgiveness and intending not to repeat the sin.
- During Ramadan, many Muslims fast from dawn to dusk, abstaining from food, drink and other physical needs. One of the central themes of Ramadan is seeking forgiveness for past sins.

- In the Jewish worldview, the soul is considered pure at birth. However, human beings are imperfect and can commit sins in their lifetime, which can affect the soul.
- Also known as the 'Day of Repentance', on Yom Kippur, many Jewish people fast and pray, seeking forgiveness from God for their past year's sins.

- In the Christian worldview, sin is viewed as an act that separates the soul from God.
- Many Catholics seek God's forgiveness through Confession, a process involving admitting wrongdoing to a priest in a Confessional box in the Church, feeling guilty (repentant), and being given action or prayer by the priest to show a commitment to living morally.

Unit: Where do our morals come from?

Guidance and rules help people to make decisions about what is right and wrong. Morals help people make decisions about how to apply and follow rules and guidance.

The mitzvot include the Ten Commandments which many Jewish and Christian people believe God gave to Moses.

Unit: Does anyone know what makes us human?

For many people, spirituality is an important part of being human. It looks and feels different to different people and may include taking time to stop, notice and connect - with others, with nature or with a god or higher power.
